Getting A Line On Tourist Traffic

Publicity Bureau Director Here on Wednesday—No Definite Assurance on Pass Highway Sur-facing

Dan C. Campbell, head of publicity bureau of the provincial government, was in the Pass on Wednesday, and was making a survey of the southern part of the province to secure information on the tourist traffic. Calling on The Journal he stated that he was vitally interested in urging the improvement of highways, and in this connection it was pointed out to him that a part from tourist traffic, the people of the Pass towns deserve immediate consideration.

He stated that he realized the urgent need of improvement after driving over this section of highway, but one of the reasons for the delay was that the Dominion government was only making appropriations at present for the park to park highways in conjunction with the provincial government.

Rev. Roy C. Taylor, M. L. A., asked when here at the week-end when the work would commence, stated he hoped it would be by August 1. Blairmore town council has endeavored to get definite assurance on the subject, but so far without success.

In connection with Mr. Campbell's visit, it is of interest to note that his father, R. E. Campbell, familiarly known as "Rocky Mountain Bob," was provincial member for this constituency from 1913 to 1921, and he is at present in good health, farming in Wembley district.

Mrs. Steeves Honored

Dangers Of The Highway

THERE has been plenty of talk, but little action in providing a surfaced highway between the Pass towns. It is high time that united action was organized and DEMAND that this improvement be made at once.

PROMISES a-plenty have been made, and even now nothing definite has been done. "We expect to start work soon" is not enough to assure the people that something will be done. The only assurance the work will be done is when materials, equipment and men are on the ground.

THE big revenue in licenses and gasoline tax from car users of the Pass towns warrants this improvement immediately—not in the indefinite future. The people are paying and getting nothing, except dust, and plenty of it, endangering lives.

WRITE the Highways Department, send in your protests direct to the government, keep at them till the work is completed. Why continue to suffer? Why continue the hazards to life? Demand action—to-day. Do not be put off by pre-election promises. The need is far more important and vital than political expediency as a vote-catching bribe.

Country versus City

Apart from the economic aspect of the question, one is often tempted to wonder why there should be any influx of rural residents to metropolitan centres in Canada as well as in the United States. When one balances the advantages of life in the country, which means in the small town or village as well as on the farm, with that of life in the greater population centres, one feels a strong urge to plump for country life.

In normal times, of course, there is always an infiltration of restless and ambitious youth from country to city and there is also a fairly constant migration of the elderly who imagine they prefer to spend their declining years in surroundings which, however, many find later, are not so congenial as they fondly anticipated.

In difficult times, such as those experienced with great acuteness in Western Canada in the past decade, this tendency to migrate from the country to the city is accelerated by whole families who have found living conditions in the country impossible and who seek refuge in the larger centres in the expectation that they can better themselves.

Setting aside the problem of those who make the change in habit because of pressure of economic circumstances, there are left the considerable number who voluntarily move from the farm or the small town to the centres of dense population in the expectation that in the cities they will enjoy amenities, pleasures and social contacts which, they believe, are unobtainable in rural surroundings. It is possible, however, that reflection will demonstrate that life in the country can be as amenable, or more, so, than in the cities.

What's A Hick Town?

The argument was well presented in an American publication recently by Lee W. McHenry when he wrote:

"Where do they get that word 'Hick' anyway?"

"Last week organizers working to persuade the people of a neighborhood to vote for daylight saving started their public with the slogan, 'Vote for Daylight Saving and Keep our Town out of the Hick Town Class.'"

"Obviously it was the intention of the slogan makers to convey the impression that a 'hick town' is something to be looked down upon, the kind of a town we would not want to live in."

"From long usage the term 'hick town' when used by city dwellers, has come to mean a rural, farming community."

"Now just what is there about order, so uncouth, so undesirable about a rural farming community?"

"Well, let us see. In the first place the 'hick town' is a community where the air is fresh and pure, free from the smoke and gas and fumes of city streets; in the 'hick town' you know your neighbors and neighbor with them—usually you don't have to lock your doors at night; the churches and school are still the outstanding institutions of these communities; there is grass anywhere for the children to play on; they don't have to travel to a park or play on the pavement; there are birds and flowers, the natural ones, not the park variety, to be seen and enjoyed; there is peace and quiet and confidence. More and more those dwellers who can afford it are moving out to 'hick towns' to live and raise their families."

"Politics in the 'hick town' are not complicated by the partnership of this or that political group with the underworld of vice, gambling, booze. The 'hick town' doesn't have to go through the periodical wave of moral reform when a 'clean up' is made just before the election in order to catch the church vote—and then allowed to die a natural death as soon as the shouting is over and the elected city administration again needs personal spending money and a place to meet privately and plot and plan and indulge in the very pastimes they so roundly denounced a short time before."

From The Hick Towns

"Business leaders will tell you that their smartest and most reliable men and women workers were boys and girls from the 'hick towns.' You don't hear the 'hick towns' walling about their impending bankruptcy unless the state or national government helps solve their financial problems. There is—but what's the use. We could go on and on."

"If by a 'hick town' those campaign organizers mean what 'hick towns' usually does, if they mean a community which takes its time and minds its own business and is not always believing for something or about something that's a good place to live and do business, where the people don't get all 'het up' day in and day out about new frills in style and the stock markets, then thank God, we live and will live in a 'hick town.' Let 'er Hick."

Pooling Railway Traffic

Claim Major Savings Expected For Railways In Britain

Pooling of all competitive traffic has accomplished major savings for the railways of Great Britain, C. E. R. Sherrington, secretary of the railway research service of the British railways, said in Toronto, in an address to the annual division of the Association of American Railroads.

The amalgamation of traffic services had not eliminated competition and most of the great trade routes were still served by two systems, he said, adding that bus investments were the most remunerative branch of railway activity in Britain. In addition the railways owned large fleets of road freight vehicles.

Stockholm, Sweden, will replace all trolley cars with motor buses.

Earth Slowing Down

Astronomers Predict Lengthening Of Our Days As A Result

A day 47 times the length of our day was predicted by the Astronomer Royal in a lecture at Oxford recently. His subject was "The Earth as a Clock," and he described the installation at Greenwich of a new quartz clock which it was hoped would be a better timekeeper than the earth.

He spoke of how investigations in partly enclosed seas established that tidal friction in such seas would account quantitatively for the observed slowing down of the earth's rotation. The length of the day would continue to increase until it was equal to about 47 of our present days, when the earth would always turn the same face to the moon just as the moon now always turned the same face towards the earth.—Banffshire Journal.

Population Of The Reich

Is Now 79,800,000, Not Including Bohemia And Moravia

The German Government announced that its recent census showed the population of Germany to be 79,800,000, not including Memelland or the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia. The census counted 38,800,000 males and 40,800,000 females.

A census of Memelland is to be taken soon and it is expected to raise the population to 79,800,000. The official German news agency, DNB, said the addition of 8,800,000 inhabitants of Bohemia and Moravia, taken over after the breakup of Czechoslovakia, gave greater Germany a population of about 88,600,000.

"Of European States only Belgium, The Netherlands, England and Italy show a higher density of population," DNB said. "According to these population figures the Reich is the most populous nation of Europe after Soviet Russia."

The population of the Soviet Union, according to an official estimate in 1934, was 168,000,000.

The announcement said population density had increased from 339.2 inhabitants per square mile in 1933 to 352.3 and that the population of the old Reich, excluding the Saar, Austria, Sudetenland, Bohemia, Moravia and Memelland had increased about 3,200,000 or more than four per cent, since 1933.

Dentists On Wheels

Cars Operated In England To Look After School Children

British teeth are said to be the worst in the world. Prosperity, it is found, is the enemy of good teeth. The richer the people the softer the food they eat, and soft food is a tooth's chief foe. Hard bread and tooth's chief friend. Man bite exercise his jaws, keep his gums in good condition, and so preserves his teeth.

To protect British children from the evil results of too much soft food, dentists on wheels have been adopted by the school districts. Sussex, Essex, Hampshire, Norfolk, Nottingham, and Northumberland.

There are 26 of these dental cars operating. In Norfolk, the pioneer company, 9,000 children received treatment last year. The dental trailer costs about £250 and can be drawn by a 14 h.p. car. It is roomy enough to hold the dentist, his assistant, the young patient and a parent or other guardian. Electricity can be drawn from the school mains.—London Times Bits.

Farming In Germany

Flight Of Agricultural Workers From Land Has Become Acute

The flight of agricultural workers from the land has become so acute a problem in Germany that the Government has been forced to take measures to forbid agricultural workers to change their profession. Thus the freedom of the agricultural workers with regard to change of residence has been severely limited, and it has even been laid down that a member of a peasant farming family owning a farm may only work on other farms after obtaining official permission. It is estimated that since 1935 German agriculture has lost no less than 650,000 labourers through flight from the land. This loss of labour has especially affected the small farmers. Enterprises with five to 20 hectares of land, that is the majority of the small and middling farmers, have lost 38 per cent. of their workers over the age of 15 years.

A Moist Welcome

A few weeks ago a company of soldiers was transferred from the East to sunny California—arriving in the midst of the rainy season.

The commander of the company, making a night tour of the camp, was challenged by a sentry who had been standing at his post for two hours in a driving rain.

"Who's there?" called the sentry. "Friend," replied the C.O. "Welcome to our mist," said the sentry.

Recall Stirring Days

Romantic Life On The Prairies With Cousins Of Early Settlers

The scent of old prairie camp fires and almost forgotten tales creep into the convention hall of the Saskatchewan branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association at Moose Jaw, when W. H. Stephen, Victoria, newly elected vice-president, told delegates the story of a famous man of the west, Jean Louis Legare, postmaster at Willowbunch until his death in 1917.

Mr. Stephen told the story as related to him by his father, many years ago. It dealt with the stirring days of the white man's first early encroachment of the Blackfoot country. He connected it with the post office through Jean Louis Legare, a man the Saskatchewan postmasters two governments as a "man among men."

It was Legare, a Quebec-born Frenchman, who arrived at Wood Mountain in the '60s of the past century. Threading his lonely way across the prairies he established himself as a trader of high reputation among the Indians.

Many wonderful experiences were his during his romantic life on the prairie but it was following the massacre of General Custer's men at Little Big Horn by the revengeful Sioux he came into recognition by two governments as a "man among men."

When all offers of the United States governments failed to induce Sitting Bull and his followers to return south of the boundary, and when Canadian Indians were growing restless at the invasion of the Sioux on their hunting grounds, it was to Legare both governments appealed for assistance.

He was the only white man Sitting Bull would trust to investigate Washington's offer of amnesty. Legare journeyed to Washington and returned with the American terms, Sitting Bull accepted and peace was restored.

When reward was offered for his services Legare thought only of his beloved prairie and he requested the American government to plow a fireguard from the east and west ends of Willow Bunch lake to join the fireguard on the American side of the boundary.

The fireguard was plowed and for years after it remained there as a symbol of the treaty of Sitting Bull and Legare.

Later, the United States government gave Legare $5,000 to offset some $8,000 he had spent in caring for American Indians while they were in Canada. He died in 1917—years after the passing of the old west—when he was postmaster of Willow Bunch.

His stories are still recalled by two men, both of whom knew him well. They are Frank Bellefleur, present postmaster of Willow Bunch, and W. J. Motherwell, now director of postal service, Moose Jaw.

Work By Lantern Light

Scheme To Halt Activities Of Beaver Not A Success

The roadmaster on the Brule subdivision, Canadian National Railways, recently had "beaver trouble". These busy animals were partially blocking drainage at a culvert. An employee suggested hanging a lantern at the culvert at night to frighten the animals away. The roadmaster thought it was a good idea. Next morning he inspected the culvert, finding the beavers had apparently put on a night shift, for they had done twice as much work as usual. The lantern plan was abandoned.

Have Free Use Of CBC Networks For Political Speeches

Ottawa.—Free use of coast-to-coast networks for broadcasting political argument in general election campaigns will be allotted the established national parties on a proportionate basis, it was announced by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Between the time of dissolution of parliament and voting no time will be purchasable for broadcasting on the national networks, under a new statement of policy issued following meetings of the board of governors held here last week and presided over by L. W. Brockington, chairman.

Other aspects of controversial broadcasting, political and non-political, are covered in the statement of policy. Free time for provincial campaigns is also contemplated once the system has been tried out in a general election.

Restrictions are placed on use of the national networks for controversial broadcasts on purchased time but the corporation will make provision for wider expressions of opinion by private individuals.

When there is no election campaign in progress, that is between an election date and the date of dissolution of parliament, time may be purchased for political speeches.

None of the corporation's plans for election broadcasts alter in any way the regulations under the broadcasting act forbidding broadcasts later than 48 hours before the polls open, and forbidding political dramatizations.

In its main features, the plan is in accordance with recommendations of the special committee of the House of Commons which considered broadcasting problems last session. The plan is designed to place campaign broadcasts on a more orderly and democratic basis than in the past. From the listener's point of view, it also aims at keeping the total amount of political broadcasts within reasonable limits.

The plan was discussed, before its adoption, with official representatives of the party organizations. It has been accepted on behalf of the Liberal, Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit parties as a fair and equitable basis for handling the problem.

Germans Leave Italy

Population Of Southern Tyrol Has Begun Exodus

Berlin.—Exodus of a large section of the German-speaking population of Southern Tyrol from Italy into Germany has begun and will continue for weeks to come, official circles said.

The 5,000 Tyroleans who have thus far entered Germany constitute the advanced guard of thousands more who, it is expected, will gradually be absorbed into the labor ranks of the Reich. Germany has for some time experienced an acute labor shortage.

It was not revealed, however, what proportion of the 150,000 German-speaking natives of the Southern Tyrol will be repatriated.

Japan Warns Britain Of Plan To Build New Order In Asia

Tokyo.—Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, marking the second anniversary of the Japanese-Chinese war, warned that Great Britain will have to recognize Japan's right to build a "new order in east Asia."

In a statement concerning the Japanese-Chinese hostilities which began two years ago, he alluded to the forthcoming Anglo-Japanese talks here over the Tientsin blockade, and said:

"True settlement of the pending questions will never be reached if the negotiations are based on a profound understanding of construction by Japan of a new order in east Asia.

"If Great Britain refuses to admit this fundamental point for Japan,

Speed Jewish Emigration

New Move To Facilitate Movement Of Jews From Germany

Berlin.—Six leading Jews selected by the Gestapo (secret police) headed the machinery of the new "reich's union of Jews in Germany," whose main task is to speed Jewish emigration.

All Jews excepting foreigners must belong to the organization, established by law, and whose set-up was worked out by secret police in co-operation with prominent Jews to promote an orderly and unified exodus.

Jews said at least five years would be required even under the new arrangement for such Jews as are able to leave Germany, to emigrate.

The new organization unifies scattered efforts of the Jewish Aid Society, the Paestling emigration office and hundreds of Jewish communities throughout Germany.

Informed Nazis meanwhile disclosed 731 Jews still were under arrest of the thousands rushed to concentration camps in the nation-wide roundup after the death last Nov. 9 of Ernst Von Rath, official in the German embassy in Paris, assassinated by a Jewish refugee.

Will Not Discuss Conflict

Britain's Talks To Japan Limited To Tientsin Matter Only

Tokyo.—A Japanese spokesman reiterated a demand that Great Britain co-operate with Japan, while Sir Robert Craigie, the British ambassador, declared Britain's attitude toward the Sino-Japanese conflict would not be discussed in forthcoming conversations with Tokyo.

Sir Robert indicated the talks would be limited to the Tientsin controversy. Japanese wishes notwithstanding.

Sir Robert expressed moderate optimism about the possible outcome of the arbitration negotiations, but he would not believe if forceful tactics are attempted a solution will be impossible; they might on the contrary, lead to catastrophe.

Danzig Protection

Protest Against German Military Activities In Free City

London.—Great Britain, France and Poland, official circles reported, are considering diplomatic action in Danzig in protest against German military activities in the Free City.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons:

"His Majesty's government will not fail to take any steps which may seem to them necessary and desirable to make their attitude absolutely clear."

This was in reply to a suggestion by Vyvyan Adams, Conservative, that some strong gesture be made to remind Germany of Britain's determination to resist any coup against Danzig.

Arab Terrorists Sentenced

Haifa, Palestine.—A military court sentenced to death seven Arab terrorists who killed four British soldiers and three Jewish policemen patrolling the railway near Kalkileh, June 2. Five other terrorists were sentenced to life imprisonment.

To Visit Belgium

King George And Queen Elizabeth Will Cross Channel On Oct. 24

London.—King George and Queen Elizabeth, recently returned from Canada and the United States, announced they had accepted an invitation to visit Belgium from October 24 to 27.

A formal palace announcement said the King and Queen had received the invitation with "much satisfaction" and had accepted with "great pleasure."

The visit will be in return for one paid by Leopold, King of the Belgians, to London in November, 1937. The visit to Belgium is expected to demonstrate anew Anglo-Belgian friendship, and recall the war ties which bound Britain so closely to the little country-lying just across the English Channel.

Formal invitation to visit the Belgian capital was tendered by King Leopold some time ago. According to earlier reports, King George and Queen Elizabeth will arrive in Antwerp, October 24, aboard a British warship, and inspect the Liege International Exposition before returning to England.

Trade Revival

Armaments Held Responsible For Improved Conditions, Says German Bank

Berlin.—"Gigantic new armaments" were held responsible for economic revival in Europe by the Reichs Kredit Gesellschaft, one of Berlin's largest banks, in a mid-year analysis of world economy.

This was said to be true of France and Great Britain as well as Germany.

Although the armaments industry is stimulating the world's markets by demanding raw materials, the bank said that nevertheless certain developments were exercising a stout drag on world economy.

It cited international indebtedness, "reasonable regulation of which must be emphasized again and again as an important precondition for world economic operation." Other factors noted were the world credit market and poor distribution of gold with more than 60 per cent. in the United States.

The survey said Germany would continue "with increased energy" to foster her barter system of trade.

Close Theological Schools

Nazi Campaign To Push Church To The Wall

Berlin.—Three of Germany's 16 Protestant theological schools were ordered to close by Oct. 1 in a move which churchmen said was part of a Nazi campaign to push the church to the wall. Bernard Rust, minister of education, issued the order.

No official explanation was given, but the order coincided with an article in the Nazi magazine "Nordland" which asserted that the study of theology was "without value and unnecessary."

The three schools are those of ancient Heidelberg University and the Universities of Leipzig and Rostock.

Kentucky Floods

Authorities Fear A Possible Death List Of 114 Victims

Morehead, Ky.—A possible death list of 114 was feared as authorities counted 33 known dead and announced 81 eastern Kentucky mountain folk were missing after a cloud-burst started floods swirling down small creeks and rivers.

Bodies of 26 people were recovered in Morehead and seven at the little settlement of Keck. In Keck there were 69 listed as missing, while 12 were unaccounted for here.

Generation after generation of these people of the hills have built their homes along the banks of these treacherous streams because there is so little level land between the mountain peaks.

They have been through floods before, many of them, but old timers shook their heads over the big loss of life from the waters that came as high as 15 feet in a short time.

Morehead was the worst hit of the many communities flooded. Postmaster W. E. Crutcher said 38 drowned in this area.

Seventy-five miles almost due south, Breathitt county—called "Bloody Breathitt" in feuding years—had seven known dead. Sheriff Walter Deaton, who went to the village of Keck, 10 miles west of Jackson, the county seat, said 69 persons were missing.

New Developments

Ontario May Open Lignite Mines To Provide Work

Toronto.—Controller D. F. J. Conboy announced that the civic northern Ontario development committee will make a special survey in the near future of the advisability of urging development of the large lignite coal deposits near Blacksmith Falls to absorb Toronto's unemployed.

It was further announced the committee, a sub-committee of the civic employment committee, will study the feasibility of encouraging Canadian pottery industries to make use of large untapped clay deposits in northern Ontario.

Urge Concerted Effort Be Made To Deal With Unemployment

Vocational Camps

Plan Is Rejected By Government On Various Grounds

Ottawa.—Heavy cost and the regimentation involved were two of the grounds on which the Dominion government declined the Canadian Corps Association's plan of vocational camps for 50,000 unemployed youths, Hon. Norman Rogers, labor minister, said.

Mr. Rogers said the plan's cost—calculated at about $50,000,000 yearly—made it "almost prohibitive." It would have placed the youths in 10 such camps for two years.

He told labor and youth organizations in Canada had declared themselves definitely opposed to the plan.

"It involves a degree of regimentation and a type of institutional life not in keeping with Canadian traditions," he said. "The people of Canada have not yet shown their willingness to submit to employment for all at the price of regimentation."

While the Canadian Corps Association suggested that part of the cost might be defrayed by production in the camps of useful commodities, the government considers that "inevitable employment of such a large number of men on the manufacture of commodities now supplied by private industry would cause disturbance and disruption." It would cause additional unemployment because of private industry's inability to retain normal staffs of workers.

Wages and conditions provided in the plan also would prove attractive to men now working on Canadian farms, the minister said, and the result would be to denude the farms, already under staffed.

The plan would set up in camp centres vocational facilities duplicating existing facilities. From the standpoint of placement, too, it would be a great disadvantage to have vocational training concentrated far from industry itself.

Mr. Rogers said that "while the Dominion government has felt it necessary to decline the plan it is not without its own projects for dealing with the single unemployed problem." Nearly 118,000 youths had already been assisted by the youth training plan. During the winter 50,000 young persons had found employment under the farm improvement and employment plan and 40 per cent. remained in employment after the plan expired in spring.

Pensions For British M.P.'s

Measure Is Presented In House For Creation Of Fund

London.—Prime Minister Chamberlain presented a bill to the House of Commons for creation of a pension fund to aid needy ex-members of the lower house and their widows.

Each member of parliament would pay an annual sum of £12 ($56) out of his parliamentary salary. In no case would pensions exceed £150 yearly to former members, and £125 to members' widows.

Heavy Gold Reserves

Washington.—The federal reserve board said gold resources of Great Britain and France are 28 times greater than those of Germany and Italy. In a survey of gold stocks and the movements of the metals in recent months, the board disclosed the gold reserves of the two democratic powers total about $6,215,000 compared with $222,000,000 held by Italy and Germany.

Move By Great Britain To Strengthen The British-French Front

London.—Great Britain launched a series of moves to strengthen the British-French front and at the same time remove doubts as to the course it will follow should new efforts be made to change the map of Europe.

These moves included:

1. Introduction of a bill in the House of Commons setting up a fund estimated at $234,000,000 to promote export of munitions and raw materials for the defence requirements of such countries as Poland, Roumania, Greece and Turkey.

2. Announcement the continent would see a sample of British air power when 52 Royal Air Force planes go to Paris for the Bastille Day exercises.

3. Announcement a number of air force reserves would be called up during the next three or four months as a test mobilization exercise.

The government's export credit scheme is an enlargement of one already in operation. At the present time the board of trade has the power to sanction export credits up to $75,000 for straight commercial transactions and $100,000 for those which must be judged on political consideration rather than commercial merits.

The $100,000,000 fund was established primarily to help China buy munitions and this trade will not be diminished.

In effect the government proposes to increase the $100,000,000 fund to $600,000,000 providing $500,000,000 in new capital for the peace bloc allies. The $600,000,000 does not include the interest charges. Some of the contracts may run as long as 10 and 15 years and the terms of the legislation provide that the interest shall not be deducted from the capital amount of the fund. In other words the whole amount must be spent on goods.

Board of trade officials estimated the interest may thus add as much as $40,000,000.

Allocation of the money has not been completed, but Poland, Turkey and Roumania will get the largest appropriations in that order, Poland getting perhaps $200,000,000. Other countries which may get smaller amounts are Greece, Egypt, Iraq, Finland and Sweden. New Zealand will receive a small credit to be used in establishing an aircraft industry.

Among single persons in the United States, only one out of ten earns $2,000 a year, and six out of 10 less than $1,000.

Claresholm Tennis Players Were Here Sunday

A friendly inter-club tennis tournament was held at the courts on Sunday when eighteen members of Claresholm club came up from the prairie town. Coleman will return the visit in three weeks.

The local club dominated in the men's division, having too much tournament experience for the visitors. Games were more evenly matched in the women's division, Miss Orpha Stewart, a highly regarded player in provincial tennis circles, leading the attack for the visitors.

The refreshment committee received much praise from the visitors and was in charge of Mrs. Joe Spiveak, ably assisted by the Mesdames Lopichuk, Jenkins and Fields.

Personnel of the Claresholm club: The Misses Orpha Stewart, Annie Summerfield, Patricia Murray, Betty Hughes, Lucille and Elaine Lewis and Mrs. R. L. King; Messrs Harry Ferguson, Dan Porter, Ben and Fred King, Pat. O'Flaherty, Oriulle Edwards, Gordon Blair, Gordon Burton, Cecil Dodd, Drayson Foxcroft and Herb Speed.

St. Alban's Church Proposes to Erect New Rectory

At a meeting of a small number of parishioners following Sunday's service, a proposal was considered to demolish the present rectory, which is in a very bad condition, and erect a new building, salvaging as much material as possible from the present building.

It is estimated that from $1500 to $2000 will be required, provided that voluntary labor undertakes to pull down the present building and excavate the basement.

The meeting was in favour of a new building. To raise the money it was proposed to secure a loan and repay it monthly over a term of years. S. B. Van Duzee and Burpee Steves, churchwardens, have had the plans under consideration, with Rev. John R. Hague, and a report of a committee appointed to outline a plan of financing the proposal will be submitted next Sunday morning following the service.

Mr. Hague expects to leave on Sunday afternoon for his summer vacation, and rumor hath it that he will be accompanied on his return by his bride.

Family Re-Union Hartley and Shields Families

Jim Shields, well known storekeeper of West Coleman, and local dealer for Bellevue Bakery, has received an invitation to attend the Hartley-Shields Re-Union to be held on Saturday Aug. 5, at Miles Park, Erindale, 23 miles west of Toronto.

The ancestors of these two families came originally from England, some three or four generations ago, and this is the first re-union of their descendants, therefore it is anticipated there will be a big gathering of the clans.

It is probable that Mr. and Mrs. Shields and family will attend, travelling east by auto via the States.

$200 Granted Towards Ambulance—McBurney's Drug Store Awarded School Supplies

Decision to sell Block 15 containing 24 lots, 50' x 95', and located on the flats was made by the school board at their regular meeting on Monday evening. The four corner lots will sell at $75 each plus surveying costs and the remaining 20 at $50 each plus surveying costs.

A delegation from the hospital board and miners union, George Ford and Mack Stigler, asked the board to grant $200 towards the purchase of an ambulance. Their request was granted.

Caretaker Wm. Antrobus reported on the visit of the provincial boiler inspector. The latter had stated it would be necessary for the board to place one man in complete charge of boilers. Mr. Antrobus stated a letter would be received from the inspector in the near future regarding this matter.

Mrs. Clara Knowles will be asked to give the board official notice that she is carrying on the contracting business of her late husband.

Teachers' school supply lists were inspected and the contract awarded to McBurney's Drug Store.

Dr. Lillie's contract for dentistry was renewed. The board examined the doctor's annual report and found it satisfactory.

Before adjourning Chairman Fraser gave his board a frank explanation pertaining to the numerous reports regarding the employing of the newly appointed town secretary. The matter was freely discussed and he was given the confidence of the board. Miss Lees, secretary, was assured that she was in no danger of losing her position.

Present were Chairman Fraser, Trustees Sharp, Greenhalgh, Fleming and Chamberlain.

Pucksters Trounce Elk Valley 14-6

Schnepf Pitched Good Game -- Struck Out 14 Men

Norman Schnepf, Angelo's new pitching sensation, scored his second triumph in as many starts when he pitched superb ball to smother Elk Valley 14-6 in a Crow league ball game. Hit freely, Schnepf was able to beat down in the pinches and seldom found himself in trouble.

Pucksters seemingly set out to make a record in the first inning when they made six errors and allowed three runs to cross the plate. This deficit was soon wiped out in the third inning when their "Big Berthas" started to find the range and they blasted Sadlish for five runs. From there on the game was on ice. Schnepf struck out fourteen men in a sparkling pitching performance.

Saturday Night Auto Accidents

The dust hazard on the highway on Saturday night contributed to at least two accidents, one of which caused a broken leg to a man named John Petrunick of Drumheller, who was walking on the highway, Jim Kellock, driving a coupe towards Coleman, struck the man about a mile west of Blairmore and picking him up took him to Blairmore hospital and immediately reported to the R.C.M.P. The injured man has a brother living in Coleman.

The other accident was a collision between cars owned by A. A. Pruett of the Grand Union hotel and a Coleman man named Mike Layoff. The collision occurred on the hill between West Coleman and Carbondale, both cars being side-swiped and fenders and wheels damaged.

Glaring headlights and dust are hazards which add to the dangers of driving during the summer months, and it is high time this heavily travelled section was surfaced.

The Development of Coleman Mines

35 Years Ago

the coal industry in this district was in its infancy. During the war years and for some time after, demand increased and the industry and workers prospered. Later competition of fuel oil and natural gas made serious inroads on the coal industry. To meet this competition, greater efficiency in mining, cleaning and marketing coal became necessary. It has required vision, scrapping of old and installing of new machinery, and above all co-operation of all engaged in the industry to meet the fierce competition to which the industry is subjected.

New Kind Of Clock

Maintains Accuracy To Within One Second During 24 Hours

A new kind of clock so accurate under ordinary conditions that it may help astronomers to aim their telescopes with higher precision and engineers to control difficult variations in alternating current, was described at San Francisco.

The instrument was developed by Henry Warren, Ashland, Mass., electrical clock manufacturer, who described it to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Warren acknowledged that the three main kinds of time standards now generally in use—the ordinary pendulum clock, the vibrating quartz crystal and the electrically driven tuning fork—were more accurate than his own creation, but said they either had to be maintained with utmost care or were subject to breakdowns or outside influences.

He presented a graph showing his instrument maintained accuracy to within one second at all times during a 24-hour stretch.

The main part of Warren's instrument is a specially made wire which is forced to vibrate at a relatively constant rate despite changes in temperature, electrical influence and other adverse factors.

Ordinarily, a wire hanging downward from some object to which it is attached will not vibrate at a constant rate because of many interfering factors.

A Lost Continent

Geologist Is Making Plans To Prove It Really Existed

Many geologists think that a lost continent lies beneath the waters of the Atlantic Ocean. Now Dr. Maurice Ewing has devised a means of submarine exploration along the line adopted by oil prospectors and intends to look for the long lost island, which was called Appalachia.

He will sink small charges of TNT, detonate them by electricity and record the vibrations when they are reflected back from the rocky bed. He will then capture certain fragments from the explosion and by means of these try to trace positive geological formations.

It is hoped that the evidence will enable him to say whether part of the Atlantic bed was once a continent close to Europe.—London Times.

National Parks

Camera Replacing Rifle As Weapon Of Big Game Hunters

The Duke of Gloucester told the society for the preservation of fauna of the Empire, that Canada has led the way in establishment of national parks.

The King's brother recalled that King George and Queen Elizabeth enjoyed "what little rest and recreation" in the way they were able to take during their Canadian tour in the two great Dominion parks—Banff and Jasper.

The camera is replacing the rifle as the chief weapon of big game hunters, the Duke told the society.

Aeroplane For The King

Medium-Sized Airliner Is Being Constructed In England

Work has now begun on the new aeroplane ordered by the King for his personal use. It is a standard "Flamingo," except for interior furnishing and other details.

The cabin, which is air-conditioned, is particularly large for this type of aircraft: 7 feet 4 inches wide and 6 feet 7 inches high. The available cabin length for all purposes is 21 feet 2 inches.

The high wing will shade the sun from the Royal passengers and at the same time give them unobstructed vision. The door will be only 27 inches above the ground, so there will be no flight of steps to climb on entering the plane.

The volume of air in the cabin will be changed every two minutes and the temperature controlled by steam heater.

The "Flamingo" is of all-metal construction. A feature is the way in which many major component parts on the port and starboard sides are interchangeable. It will be possible to change a complete power unit in two hours and to remove a wing in one hour. The wheels will be changed in only a few minutes.

The "Flamingo" is a medium-capacity airliner and during the summer several of the new British machines will be flying.

It is claimed that they will be better than anything of this type produced in the United States which hitherto have had a monopoly of it.

Previously British firms had been handicapped in the production of this class of machine as they had to compete with foreign aircraft manufacturers who were subsidised by their governments. Now that the British Imperial attitude towards subsidies has been modified, it is felt that foreign competition can be met on equal terms.

The new airliners are high-wing twin-engine monoplanes, each engine of 800 h.p. They have a cruising speed of 210 m.p.h. and a range of 1,250 miles, carrying a payload of 1,735 pounds.

The machines, which will take from 12 to 20 passengers, have unusually high factors of safety. They will be able to climb on only one engine, even at full speed, and they have remarkable controllability in single-engine flight.

A new type of rubber control is used which will enable the machine, when only one engine is running, to make a turn against the active engine, an important safety factor.

The King's Visit

His Majesty Able To Capture The Esteem Of People In Responsible Positions

It would be a great mistake to suppose that the success of the Canadian, and still more of the American, visit of Their Majesties was due altogether to their ability to look pleasant and say the correct thing in a long series of brief official contacts.

The public at large had not much opportunity to judge of any but the merely pleasant and ingratiating sides of the Royal character; but it is not those superficial qualities which made so deep an impression on a great number of American statesmen of national importance, from President Roosevelt and Secretary Cordell Hull to Senator Borah and Mayor LaGuardia.

What the King and Queen did and said to engage so rapidly and so completely the interest and esteem of those astute personages we shall not speedily know, for etiquette does not encourage the prompt revelation of the private conversations of kings. But we may take their behavior as proof conclusive that they found in George VI. qualities much deeper than those of which the ordinary public was given a glimpse in his official appearances.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Use Homemade Loom

How quaint and colorful this hand-woven rug—with its greens, pinks, lavenders, yellows.

And you can weave it yourself on a homemade loom, using odd bits of cloth.

To make the loom, nail together a simple oblong frame of four wooden slats and tack strips of burlap to the shorter sides. Now thread heavy postal twine through the burlap strips, forming a "warp."

For the weaving use long strips of fabric three or four inches wide, flat in raw edges. Double flat strip and using both ends, weave a braid-like pattern as in diagram. One end goes under warp as the other goes over. Quickly weave a braid away and your rug when finished is as pretty on one side as the other.

Our 32-page booklet gives complete directions and diagrams for weaving these and many other lovely things—such as lamp shades, afghans, pillow tops, handkerchiefs, scarves, dollies.

"Haven't got a wife," the other chap told him.

"Then don't do you shyt out late like this!"

The Outstanding Incident

Was Their Majesties Unscheduled Mingling With Veterans At Ottawa

A Montreal newspaper recently conducted a poll on impressions held by the public with respect to the visit of the King and Queen to Canada.

The poll indicated, by a wide margin, the opinion that the outstanding incident of the visit was the unscheduled and unannounced mingling of Their Majesties with the crowd at Ottawa following the unveiling ceremony at the War Memorial on May 21.

That was the occasion on which the Royal pair, their official duties of the occasion done, stepped down from their place on a platform to meet personally some of the assembled war veterans, war mothers and nursing sisters.

Thereafter they moved round and about the state enclosure, which was soon so completely occupied by the crowd that the King and Queen became separated from guards and escort.

Greeting and talking with one after another, they moved first down the stairs, passing their car which was ready and waiting to take them away, but not returning to it until an hour or so afterwards.—Fort Arthur News-Chronicle.

Still Experimenting

To Produce Smaller Turkey For Average American Family

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's poultry geneticists are still experimenting to produce a turkey that will be small enough to fit the small pans that fit the small ovens that fit the small ranges that fit the small incomes of the small American families of to-day. This used to be a country of big things, where big families lived in big houses and had big appetites. A fifty-pound turkey was merely a gastronomic incident to a Thanksgiving dinner. The bright young men who started out in Washington six years ago to make America over seem determined to remodel it on a smaller scale all round.—Detroit Free Press.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REHOBOAM: A MAN WHO MADE A FOOLISH CHOICE

Golden text: A man's pride shall bring him low. Proverbs 29:23.
Lesson: 1 Kings 12:1-20.
Devotional readings: Philippians 2:1-11.

Explanations And Comments

Jeroboam's Plea for Justice at the Assize, 1 Kings 12:1-15. On Solomon's death his son Rehoboam succeeded him and went to Shechem to have his kingdom ratified by the Northern Tribes. Jeroboam, who had been summoned from Egypt, offered the allegiance of those tribes if Rehoboam would lessen the burdens placed upon them by his father Solomon. They father made them three days for an answer. He purposed seeking advice, but as it turned out we see that it was not really courteous advice he wanted, but a confirmation of his own wishes.

Rehoboam's Suietal Answer, 1 Kings 12:16-15. On the third day Jeroboam and representatives of all the people came for their answer. Rehoboam, at the counsel of the old men and answered them according as the young men had advised. "Oh, the madness and folly of it! If he had no much as a spark of wisdom, prudence or sagacity he would have known that the hour was not propitious for such an answer. It was a time for conciliation, for the soft answer, that turneth away wrath, for an expressed willingness to serve his people for their best interests, and so to serve his own. He had sense enough to ask advice, but was too big a fool to choose the better of the worse. So was the king, David, to build up a national unity and in three days this precious foot had talked with him. In letters, never to be a union again."

Arrogance Overreaches Itself, 1 Kings 12:16, 17. Tyranny leads to revolution. As Ahijah had foretold, Rehoboam lost the greater part of his kingdom, for when the ten northern tribes heard his intolerable words they cried: "What portion have we in David? Neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse (David was the son of Jesse; Rehoboam, the grandson); to your tents O Israel; now see to your own house, David." They used the old phrase of dismissal which their forefathers spoke when they had broken through the wilderness. The text was the symbol of the free, simple life of patriarchal times. In the language of poetry and prophecy, it has a meaning and a dignity that the house never had. Thus the northern tribes formally withdrew and took their departure. To Rehoboam remained only the tribe of Judah.

Toronto Elevator Man Will Study For Job With C.B.C.

The fact that the whole world heard him broadcast Ontario's tribute to the King and Queen on Empire Day hasn't affected the modesty of Alex Brady, elevator man in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto.

He first went on the air over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network last February in an impromptu talk series known as "My Job." It was as a result of this broadcast that he was chosen to send greetings to Their Majesties.

After his Empire Day broadcast last night, his congratulatory message arrived from points as diversified as Vancouver and Natal, South Africa.

"Now I have been told that I can have tests to try for a regular announcer's job with the C.B.C. when I am ready," he said. "Now it is up to me to study and make good. It will take me a year, anyway, but it is still a great opportunity."

Taking The Census

United States To Use A Lot Of Material In Completing The Work. Two items in the two magazines above striking if not entirely original thought.

The Census Bureau, preparing to count the population of the United States next year, estimates that it will use 338,196 pounds, 6,472 pieces of ink, 8,900 pounds of paste and 11,000 typewriters ribbons.

And the Treasury Department reports a saving of $18,000,000 in paper, ink, labor and storage space since paper money was reduced one-third in size last year. It has printed 9,339,917,777 bills in that decade—the denominations ranging from $1 to $100,000—and saved nearly $2 on each thousand bills.—New York Times-Telegram.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA

presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST by DR. J. W. S. McULLOUGH

INVENTOR OF STETHOSCOPE

In its regular feature "Brief Biographies of Eminent Men," the quarterly publication of the Health League of Canada gives this sketch of Rene Laennec:

A great Frenchman began his career when Laennec was born at Quimper in Lower Brittany in 1781. The natives of Brittany are close kin to that other Celtic race the Welsh in England.

Laennec began life under distressing circumstances for, when he was under five years of age, his mother died of consumption, the lung disease now universally known as pulmonary tuberculosis. This fact is of importance for the same disease seriously handicapped and finally terminated his life at 40 years of age. The child, with his brothers and sisters was brought up by an uncle who was a cure, that is, a priest. Then he went to another uncle, a medical man. He received a good classical education and his medical environment had accented his knowledge of profession. At 19 he went to Paris to complete his medical education. There he came under the influence of Napoleon's great physician, Corvisart. The latter, recognizing the bright mind of Laennec, encouraged him to take up medicine.

The young man plunged into work with an energy greater than his physical powers. At 32 years of age was a visiting physician to the Necker hospital.

Laennec's greatest achievement was the invention of the stethoscope. In making this discovery he turned good account his knowledge of anatomy. "I had discovered," he said, "that one can hear with great distinctness the scratch of the heart on the surface of wood on applying one's ear to the other." Applying this suggestion he rolled a piece of paper into a kind of cylinder and applied one end of it to the region of the heart and the other to his ear. By this means he was surprised that he could hear heart sounds much more clearly than he had been able to do by the immediate application of his ear to the chest. From this simple beginning came the perfection of the stethoscope, one of the most useful instruments of every modern doctor.

In 1822, Laennec was appointed to the chair of medicine in the College of France, and in the following year he succeeded his revered teacher Corvisart as head of the College. He worked too hard. His health broke down; he went home with a cough, and died in 1826.

Laennec was a great friend of workers in tuberculosis not only in France but wherever his history is known. He was a very great man.

France Has Style Show

Displayed Proper Thing To Wear In Case Of War

Paris, which long has prided itself on being the world's fashion center, opened a new kind of style show to display what to wear in case of war.

The favorite model appeared to be a two-piece yellow or green olivine suit with a gas mask, mittens and rubber boots as accessories during air raids. These suits could be bought for from 300 to 600 francs ($7.95 to $15.90). They had caps that covered the head and bloomers that tucked into boots.

There was a similar model in a heavy white waterproof fabric with a head dress like a diver's helmet.

Other accessories included portable fire-extinguishers, flashlights and cans of anti-gas chemicals.

This show was as exclusive as those of the great fashion houses. It was an "exposition of security" organized by the National Defence Ministry. To demonstrate the reason for all this the Air Ministry put on a special show of explosives, incendiary gas and shrapnel bombs.

Has New Policy

The Hartford Courant, the "oldest newspaper" in America—published daily, has editorially announced the cause of death would be omitted from the obituary columns. The editors explained the new policy was intended as a "contribution to the peace of mind of those who foster gloomy predictions."

"And everything finished and ready now?" Mrs. Dana said with an odd laugh. "You could — you could be married tomorrow — or this evening."

"That's an idea!" Duncan agreed fondly. "Why not?" Sarah Lynn said, "Your family won't be here until Monday." She waited for Duncan to move.

"Of course!" her mother said. "We couldn't disappoint them. But if you should want a romantic elopement — Everything's ready, even to the license."

Duncan deliberated with his knight. "Not our line, is it, Sarah Lynn? Old and settled and sedate?" he moved the piece.

Sarah Lynn's hand hovered over the board, hesitated, came to rest on the table's edge. She spoke in a voice they had not heard for a long time. "Duncan, are you very sure? I mean, are you satisfied?"

"Of course I am," he said quickly. "Your play?"

"I haven't tricked you, have I?" she went on. "You said you'd be content with half a loaf, but sometimes I think it's just a few crumbs, Duncan."

She looked at him steadily. Sally Ann would have seen a crack in the cellophane. "Are you sure?"

He gave her hand a pat. "I'm sure you're going to beat me in a minute!"

After a pause Sarah Lynn moved her move. "Check!" she said in her usual voice.

Her mother went to her own room and talked agitatedly over the telephone to Aunt Helena. The family seeress was startled but she pulled her serenely over her head like a sweater. Dear Adelaide was to lie down at once without a pillow, with an iced towel over her eyes, and relax, drawing long rhythmic breaths.

There was not the slightest cause for alarm. The intruder would hear from Lynn Dana of Sarah Lynn's impending marriage and he would go again.

CHAPTER XVI.

Mrs. Dana's rhythmic breathing was interrupted by three telephone calls. She rose swiftly at each bell, answered a servant's call, and said the same things in turn to Mary Dana Webster, Sally Ann, and Lynn Dana.

"No, I will not call her," she stated firmly. "No; I will not give her the thin, spindly greeting. 'I thought you'd like to know,' she said. 'Gunnar Thorwald is back.' She was out of breath with hurrying, and her hot-looking hands with their crimson nails were trembling.

"Here?" "Here I saw him, just now, going into Lynn Dana's house."

Mrs. Dana drew herself up with the ancient gesture of a lady putting an upstart in her place. She was milk-white. "Thank you, I-I appreciate your thoughtfulness, not of course, that it could make any difference now, but—"

Ardine lifted one full shoulder in a languid shrug. "All right. I just thought you'd like to know." She let herself out of the front door.

"All right," he said again. "I bid Dana and his sons come down to dinner and it was a merry meal. Once the door-bell rang and Gunnar Jung said mysteriously, 'Miss Dana, you come!' and Mrs. Dana hurried to the reception-hall, her heart slipping in her breast, to find a high school youth in a soiled sweat shirt asking for young Bill. He was embarrassed by the warmth of her greeting.

After their always formal coffee in the drawing-room the family separated, the older sons off on their own occasions, the youngest reluctantly to his books, the husband to a directors' meeting at the San Jose Chamber of Commerce, and the mother went upstairs with Duncan and Sarah Lynn.

Duncan read a solid biography aloud in his pleasantly modulated cultured voice and Sarah Lynn leaned back in her chair, her hands loosely clasped in her lap, her eyes half closed. The pretty room was quiet and warmly and softly lit; the stained carpet was covered with gay chintz and the Persian kittens were asleep in their basket in delectable attitudes. Framed photographs of plump babies looked down from the walls in dewy innocence, and Mrs. Dana began to have a sense of safety, of sanctuary so complete that she started in on her rhythmic breathing again.

Then the door opened without a preliminary knock and Miss Pennington walked in. "This is the last of my hard, round cheeks and her pale eyes appeared to protrude farther than ever. She stood still in the middle of the room.

"Sarah Lynn," she said abruptly. "Gunnar Thorwald is here."

Sarah Lynn gave a muffled cry, her clenched hands at her mouth. "Hush, Miss Pennington!" her em-player said sharply. "I forbid you to—"

The governess went steadily on. "Sarah Lynn, he has come back for you."

Duncan was on his feet. "Miss Pennington, this makes no difference to Sarah Lynn now!"

"Listen to me, Sarah Lynn! He came back, thinking you were still helpless, that you would never walk again. He came to take you away with him, or to stay with you forever."

"This means less than nothing to you, at this late date, darling," the mother said. "Remember, he went away at the moment when your condition seemed most hopeless."

"Because you turned from him in horror," Miss Pennington said quickly. "You know that you deliberately sent him away."

Sarah Lynn was out of her chair, wide-eyed, shaking. "Yes—because I knew how he despised weakness! Because I didn't want to spoil his life—because I want him to be free!" (To Be Concluded Next Week)

Take Pride In Your Town

Trees, Lawns And Flowers Make A Town Beautiful

As you drive through the country in your car this summer, some time during the day you are going to exclaim, "What a beautiful town!" That town is the town in which you will want to stop for the night; that town is the one in which you would like to spend your vacation; that town is the kind of a town you would like to retire to when the retiring time of life comes.

If you are of an analytical turn of mind, you will realize that most of the things which make a town beautiful are growing things. They are lawns, gardens, flowers, trees, parks.

Fresh paint and attractive fences are added attractions, of course, but it is rarely indeed that you see a dilapidated, unpainted house, a same yard with a beautiful garden, or an unpainted ramshackle fence around a well-kept lawn.

It is also true that this beauty rarely just happens. Some one has made the town beautiful, conscious, tree conscious, flower conscious, lawn conscious. In many cases investigation will show that these beautiful towns have thriving garden clubs, and the garden clubs have been a moving factor in all this creation of beauty—Kiwans Magazine.

Not Deadly To Humans

The bite of a tarantula, or banana spider, is not deadly to humans as is generally supposed. The spider uses its mild poison to paralyze small animals upon which it preys for food. It bites the prey and then retreats to wait until the poison has done its work. When the prey is helpless, the spider returns to suck the blood and eat.

But Man Who Became Old Magnate Had To Help Family

Sir Henri Deterding, the oil magnate and one of the richest men in Europe, who died recently, might have become an Admiral. If he had had any money in his youth, he once said, he would have gone to sea, but as he had to earn his own living and help his people he had to look for something more immediately remunerative. He became the complete business man. He knew every detail of office work. Often he typed his own letters. This information was gathered from his personal assistant, Prince M. Souboutoff, a Russian prince, who met Sir Henry soon after the war and was invited to join his staff about six years ago. Prince Souboutoff states that Sir Henry was an astounding man at figures. He could read a balance sheet and grasp its essentials at a glance, while other men would need hours to study it. He often surprised his staff by counting in his head large sums for which they needed ten minutes and pencil and paper. He often said the key to his success was the fact that he had great responsibilities to others. His secret longing was to be a farmer. He bought large tracts of land in several countries and settled his children on them. He spent each week-end on one of his estates, and helped in tilling the soil.

Doctor Thinks T.B. Germ May Aid Blood Clotting In Surgery

The germ of tuberculosis was described as a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" of the medical world—a killer in one role, a life-saver in another. Dr. William Charles White, chairman of the medical research committee of the National Tuberculosis Association, told scientists convening for a four-day convention that from the germ science has obtained a form of Vitamin K, the anti-hemorrhagic vitamin which prevents or checks fatal bleeding in obstructive jaundice.

The tiny lethal bacilli, he said, are the source of a substance known as phthocol, already used effectively to give jaundiced sufferers the necessary blood-clotting they need, and he added:

"There is a possibility that it also may be used to prevent bleeding in surgery."

"It is surprising that good may come from tuberculosis by the discovery that the yellow crystals which give the tuberculosis germ its color are a form of Vitamin K. It is thought that this discovery completes the vitamin K problem, and that phthocol is probably the simplest member of an homologous series of anti-hemorrhagic substances."

Western Canada Wool Wins Out In A Severe Test

Recently a large manufacturer of automobiles in Canada reported that his firm had decided to use fabric made from all Canadian wool for the upholstery in their 1940 cars.

Before a fabric was decided on several were subjected to a rigid test, known as the "rubbing test". A mechanical device was used to rub the cloth just as if it were being worn by a person getting in and out of a car. To be satisfactory, a fabric must stand from 10,000 to 12,000 rubs. Two of the fabrics under test gave out before the required number of rubs had been reached. A third just passed. But a cloth made from 100 per cent. "Stop, Gunnar! Wait! You don't understand."

Mrs. Dana stood still in her handsome hall, clenched hands pressed to her jaw-bones for long moments. She went to her own room and rubbed her pale cheeks with a rough towel and plucked them and went back to Sarah Lynn and Duncan, who were playing chess.

He smiled up at her ruefully. "Your daughter is about to check-mate me!"

"Oh, no!" Mrs. Dana said sharply. "See if I care!" Duncan said ardently. "When I remember that this time next week we'll be 'way out on the Pacific,' that's Wednesday, and this is Saturday, to-day, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday—" he counted off

Dusty Highway Through Pass Increases Driving Hazards

(From The Bulletin Published by The Journal)

Three accidents on Saturday night, involving damages to at least five cars, and a broken leg to a pedestrian, emphasize the care necessary at this time of the summer season to avoid accidents.

Thick dust, glaring headlights and risks of pedestrians walking on highways help to swell the toll of injuries, possibly death. Not only local traffic between the Pass towns, but increased tourist traffic in the summer months add to the dangers of summer driving.

R.C.M.P. officers will check closely all accidents, and drivers going at speeds considered dangerous to the common good will be dealt with under the Highway and Traffic Regulations. Better to drive safely than to be sorry after an accident.

Jesus was talking to the people who knew the scene well. Not far from the shore, the fishermen would "cast" the net, with its lower edge weighted so as to sweep the lake bed. At last it is hauled to the shore with a squirming mass of fish. These are sorted and the worthless thrown away. The kingdom of Heaven is like such a net. Without regard for nation or race, it is to be flung on the wide sea. No one can escape, for God's mercy dictates that the Kingdom shall be offered to one and all. Jesus did not say "Go ye into all the desirable parts of the earth," but "Go ye into all the world."—Ex.
